WEBSITE DESIGN FOR SCHOOLS

Letterpress Design Ltd

BACKGROUND

Schools have an obligation to communicate effectively with their stakeholders and increasingly the website must carry the brunt of the information in a professional and accessible package. As part of every Ofsted inspection, the school website is assessed to see whether it provides required statutory information, regular updates of pupils' activities and even host academically linked activities for pupil use outside of school.

AIMS

We aim to provide you with a website that communicates effectively and clearly on your behalf, gives a true representation of the school's ethos and identity and is the first port-of-call for those looking for information about the school. It will be reliable and easy to navigate by users. Staff will find it simple to update content to keep information current and accurate. It will also be viewable across a whole range of devices and browsers likely to be used by website viewers.

WHAT YOU WILL GET

We specialise in producing Wordpress websites with bespoke designs. This provides you with a custom built website built on an internationally supported Content Management System that is flexible, easy to use, regularly updated and secure. Our belief is that you shouldn't pay for things you can do (uploading your own content and maintaining your website) only for what you can't: design and coding. It seems obvious to us that, particularly in education, money needs to work hard.

Continued overleaf →

We know that the School Information Regulations (2008 and subsequent amendments) require certain things on your website: contact details and named contact, downloadable policies, up-to-date information on premiums, results, curriculum, Local Offer, admissions and so much else. We are already primed to provide you with a design which will incorporate all the legislated requirements balanced with creative energy to make your site an online destination that will prove popular with pupils and parents alike.

HOW WE WILL WORK WITH YOU

We listen carefully to what you need and work hard to deliver designs that you love. We involve you at every stage of work so that the site is as much your product as ours and we especially love it when schools involve the children in decisions about site design! We are happy to advise you on things you are not sure about, point you towards free solutions where possible and offer a range of paid-for tools where appropriate.

TESTIMONIALS

“We use Letterpress Design to produce and maintain our new website. I found them to be very professional and responsive. From the initial meeting Satnaam was able to see where we wanted to go with the new website. He was able to deliver our vision into a workable, friendly online presence used by all. The whole process was straightforward and the website was delivered on time and on budget. Satnaam continues to work in the background keeping the website updated and adding any new requirements when needed. Overall a wonderful company who delivered what they were commissioned for.”
